

Future City Middle School

2025–2026 Impact and Reach

Types of Institutions

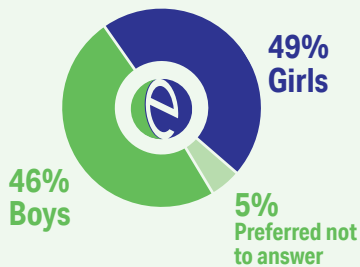

60% Public Schools

59% of Public Schools are Title I or offer Title I Programming

40% Non-Public Schools, After-schools, and Homeschools

Student Gender

84%

of students said Future City helped them see the value of working in a team

90% of educators say their students learned about STEM concepts they are not normally exposed to

Reach

2,246
Registered Educators

98,610
Students

2,060
Organizations

of educators say Future City strengthened their students' problem-solving skills

81% of students say Future City helped them appreciate how many different types of engineering go into a city

79% of educators report an increase in student engagement as a result of participating in Future City

"This program changes the trajectory of kids' lives. This program has given my students real opportunity and helped them see how they can use engineering to solve community problems."

Middle School Educator, Michigan

"Future City helped me in ways I never knew I needed. I've always been independent when it comes to working so this was such a good experience for team building and group problem solving."

Middle School Student, Texas

Future City High School

2025–2026 Impact and Reach

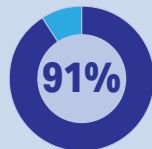

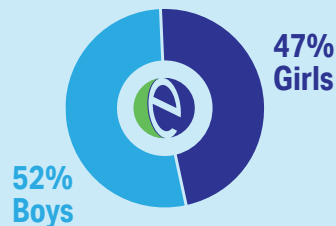

Types of Institutions

- 59% Public Schools
- 39% Non-Public Schools, After-schools, and Homeschools
- 26% Title I Schools (as a % of all registered organizations)

Student Gender

of coaches say Future City helped their students learn how to use engineering to solve real-world problems

86% of coaches say Future City helped their students learn time management skills

96% of coaches say Future City helped their students learn teamwork skills

82%

of students say Future City has increased their confidence in their problem-solving abilities

“The program teaches engineering, teamwork, leadership, speech, writing, project management, and many more skills. You can't find a more comprehensive project than Future City High School.”

High School Coach

“Future City High School is a great opportunity to discover engineering and appreciate its impact on our daily lives. It motivated me even further to pursue a career in engineering.”

High School Student, Mexico

85% of students say Future City gave them a place where they felt welcome and like they belonged